On the Headwaters of Peace River

By Paul Haworth

With a single guide, Mr. Haworth started by canoe from Hanzard, on the upper Fraser River, ascending to the great British Columbia divide, from whence he portaged to the Crooked River. This, as well as the Parmp, the Findlay, and the Quadaha—all tributaries of the Peace—he explored, finally turning into the Peace, which he ascended as far as the bend, some fifty miles northwest of Lesser Slave Lake. His descriptions of the country, of the animal life, and of his camp life form a wonderfully fascinating narrative. $4.00 net.

Voyages on the Yukon and its Tributaries

By Hudson Stuck

Archdeacon of the Yukon

The author, who wrote so successfully of Alaska in winter in "Ten Thousand Miles with a Dog Sled," describes in this new volume Alaska in summer. In the first half of the volume he presents the splendid panorama that unfolds before the summer tourist down the Yukon from its head to its mouth; in the second, pursuing the narrative plan of his former book, he describes the great Alaskan tributaries of the Yukon upon the basis of voyages made in following his missionary work in his launch, "The Pelican." A vast area of country is in this way revealed to the reader by the author's rare descriptive skill.

FASCINATING JUNGLE STUDIES OF JUNGLE LIFE

Tropical Wild Life In British Guiana

Being Zoological Contributions to Science, from the Tropical Research Station of the New York Zoological Society, at Kaituma, 1910.

By WILLIAM BEEBE, G. INNESS HARTLEY and PAUL G. HOWES

with an Introduction by CHAS. THOMPSON ROOSEVELT

Octavo, cloth, gilt top and side stamp, 504 pages.

3 colored plates and 140 other illustrations.

This remarkable volume sets an entirely new pace in the study of wild life. The three naturalist authors went to a South American jungle that was teeming with animal life, lived there under most advantageous conditions, and for several months indulged in a genuine orgy of observations and studies of tropical wild life as that life was lived and developed from day to day. The keynote was the evolution and development of interesting and little known forms.

The studies so beautifully revealed in this fascinating volume embraced such bird species as the wonderful tree-climbing hoatzin, various toucans, tinamous, jacanas, and nightjars, pyrethrons, ant-eaters, seed eaters, and many others. The reptiles were the giant marine toad and alligator, and great work was done on the wasps.

It tells the whole story of the Station, its work and its surroundings, and as a vivid exposition of tropical life in a rich South American jungle it is unique and unrivaled.

The wealth of skillfully made photographs brings the whole of the subject matter into the reader's grasp.

Only 500 copies are available for sale outside the Society.

Price, $3.00 net. Average of postage, 15c. extra.

Special price to all members of the New York Zoological Society, $2.00 net, postage 8 cents.
